

Bennett Says Dealers Are "Dictating" Milk Prices, Asks Probe

Reports Profits By Milk Dealers
of From 13 to 27 Per Cent
Per Quart—Debate Begun in Assembly.

"FOOTBALL" TALK

Republican Charges Democrats
Have Made "Political Football" of Milk Issue.

Albany, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., told the legislature today that milk distributors are "dictating" prices under the Rogers-Allen law, and asked additional funds to investigate further into "this collusion and coercion."

At the same time, Bennett reported profits by milk dealers of from 13 to 27 per cent per quart of fluid milk with the consumer and that paid to the producer ranging from 8.1 cents to 8.5 cents per quart since July 1, 1937 to the present time.

His statement provoked immediate debate in the Assembly. With Republicans, Democrats and American Labor party representatives quarreling loudly over the value of the findings.

The attorney general said the "spread" has been increased since advent of the Rogers-Allen law, enacted last year to supply the four-year-old price fixing provisions and permitting producers and distributors to bargain collectively for prices to be paid to the farmer.

"The distributor, under present conditions, is in the driver's seat," he said.

"Political Football"
The Assembly debate began when Republican Maurice Whitney, Rensselaer county, accused the Democrats of making the entire milk price situation "a political football."

"Democratic candidates for governor are taking turns appealing for the farmer vote," he said. "Bennett closes his report by saying he hasn't been able to complete his study and come to definite conclusions, and asks more money and office help. The thing to do is to elect a Republican governor next year."

Democratic Assemblyman Leonard L. Feinstein, New York city, denying that his party was making a "football" of the situation, asserted "we'll continue to make investigations until the price of milk is lowered to a reasonable level."

"We Need Action"
"We don't need investigations. We need action," Whitney countered.

The American-Labor Party leader, Nathaniel M. Minkoff, explaining he believed both the producers and consumers were being "kicked around," asked Republican support for a municipal milk plant in New York city. The plant would, he said, "determine the actual spread of dealer profits."

Assessing the milk situation "is pretty rotten," Democratic Assemblyman Daniel Flynn, New York city, blamed the Rogers-Allen law for "three one cent retail price increases within the year."

Republican Howard N. Allen, Dutchess, introduced of the criticized law, said there's too much "bosh" about this thing. No investigations are going to lower the price of milk.

The Rev. Dutton S. Peterson, Schenectady Republican, declaring "we've had investigations for years and years," and who has sought what he termed a really "complete" study, asserted that he still believed it was desirable.

No Comment
In New York, the Borden and Sheffield milk companies declined to comment until they have studied the report.

Bennett placed the profit percentages at:
Grade B milk at retail, 13 per cent; advertised brands of Grade B milk at wholesale, 16 per cent; Grade A milk at retail, 21 per cent; and Grade A, vitamin D milk at 27 per cent.

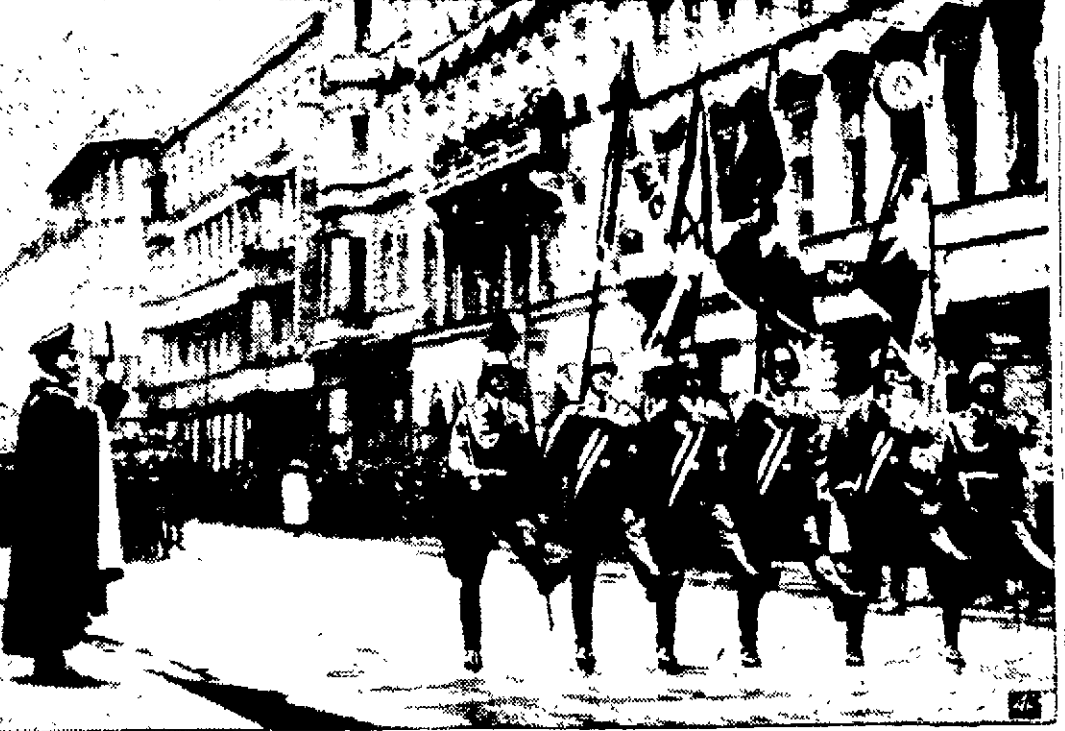

"We have concluded from this investigation," he said, "that the profit on milk sold at the door at the established prices and at the store at the announced prices is substantial."

Seventy-four companies, 12 co-operatives and various associations were examined at 110 hearings in New York city and Syracuse during the course of the investigation of the original complaint, which, Bennett said, introduced the existence of a "combination to fix prices in the sale of milk to the public."

Bennett's findings differed sharply from the results of an audit of milk dealers' books recently concluded by the state agriculture department, which placed 1936 dealer profits at 11.6 per cent and estimated a probable average 1937 earning of 6.8 per cent.

The attorney general's report was made public shortly after the State Senate unanimously approved a proposal for publication of 5,000 copies of the 600-page agriculture department audit.

The Board of Public Works at its monthly meeting Monday afternoon at the city hall empowered Superintendent David J. Conway to proceed with necessary repairs to the city's streets as soon as weather conditions permit, and gave him authority to purchase the necessary patching materials that will be used to repair the ravages of winter on the pavements. Superintendent Conway said that many of the streets were badly in need of repairs this spring. It is expected that the board will shortly make a tour of the city to lay out street work for the spring and summer.

During the past winter the city had spent about $5,000 on snow removal. There had been four snow storms that had required the use of snow plows to open the streets and in two of the storms it had been found necessary to get out the snow loaders and other equipment to remove the snow from the streets. An added expense was the large amount of sanding that had been required during the winter to make the streets safe for traffic.

Work was progressing on the WPA project of tearing up the old trolley tracks and rails, and City Engineer James Norton was instructed to sell the steel rails at the highest price that could be obtained. It was also stated that it was expected to rebuild Main street as a WPA project, work to commence about the first of April.

The $80,000 received from the sale of work relief bonds recently had not been placed to the credit of the city's WPA funds in the bank, and City Engineer Norton, who has charge of the WPA program in the interest of the city was informed that this was all the money that the city would spend as its share of the program this year.

Requests to install street lights on Granite Court, Harding avenue and high street were referred to the lighting committee.

Sam Stone of Perry street was awarded the contract to supply the city with truck tires as he submitted the lowest bid. His bid was $588.04 for the number of tires needed.

Bills and claims were read and audited and the board then adjourned to inspect the new equipment recently purchased, including the new sidewalk snow plow.

Three times the treasury's procurement division sounded the tocsin for bids and twice somebody got mixed up.
Only one company bid the first time.
The second time one of the bidders became confused over the dings and dongs. He thought the government wanted a bell that would ding just once for every hour.
That wasn't the cure.
The government sought a bell that would ring out the hour in numbers. A bell that struck 1 o'clock all the time, officials felt, would be monotonous as well as confusing.
Back went the bids. The third time the McNeely Company of Watervliet, N. Y., got the job.
The bell is going to weigh 2,500 pounds. It's going to be 48 inches tall and 56 inches in diameter and in addition to striking the hours, it's going to toll.
Specifications—which the treasury says the President has been over himself—are pretty rigid.
The company has 30 days to make the bell and 30 days to install it in the Colonial cupola atop the new Poughkeepsie post office.
The third specification may give some citizens a headache—the company's going to have 30 days to get the bell ringing right.

Chamberlain's Stand, "Peace or We Fight," Is Cause of Reaction

Some Favor Implied Threat to Hitler, Others Think Rearm-
ament Program All Wrong,
But Fighting Spirit Is Stirred.
PRESS IS PLEASED

Daily Mail Glad Namby Pamby
Pacifism Is Over for Great Britain.

London, March 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace or we fight" declaration to the world brought a mixed response today from London's man in the street.

To some it seemed all right. "Sure, I'd fight again," returned a bus conductor with gun powder-marked face.

Many didn't give much thought to the Parliamentary appeals for support of Britain's "almost terrifying" armament program, to back up peace talks with dictators. "Glad Chamberlain's point is better," was a telegrapher's comment.

Others thought the armament program all wrong. "Look at what they could build with the price of one battleship," marvelled an office boy. "Himmler!"

There was political and public opposition to the Premier's policy, but his appeal to the British fighting spirit was not without widespread response.

"The days of namby pamby international pacifism are over," proclaimed The Daily Mail, pro-Chamberlain, in today's editorial.

Daily Herald's Praise
Even the less friendly laborite Daily Herald, with surprising moderation, said Chamberlain's speech was "admittedly a capable parliamentary performance," and did not attack the government foreign policy editorially.

Avowing that "I, myself, would fight for the preservation of democracy," Chamberlain last night won a vote of confidence from the House of Commons both for pursuing peace talks with Germany and Italy, and, if they failed, for stepping up an already staggering rearmament program.

Chamberlain admitted the headlong rearmament drive was being utilized psychologically, when he said:

"The sight of this enormous, this almost terrifying power which Britain is building up has a sobering effect, a steady effect, on the opinion of the world."

And Britain would build even greater engines of war, he continued, "if, in the end, we should fail to reestablish confidence and peace."

This roused the liberal News Chronicle to editorial criticism that:

"Chamberlain's speech is a return to power politics in its most naked form."

Explaining the current friendship talks with Germany and Italy, Chamberlain said:

"We cannot divest ourselves of interest in world peace. Quarrels which begin in a limited area might be of deep concern to us, if they proved to be the starting point of a general conflagration."

This was interpreted as an implied threat to Hitler to stop his slow but steady march toward Europe, with his German minorities for which Hitler has pledged protection.

Democracy Faces Crossroads Says Speaker at Forum

Mr. Lore was speaking at the public forum that has been launched under the auspices of the Men's Club of Temple Emanuel and the Kingston Jewish Youth Alliance. There are two other speakers who will address the forum later.

Mr. Lore said that Europe was arming and also America on an even larger scale than ever before. This arming race was started by Germany and Italy, the two leading Fascist nations of the world, and it was these two nations that were spreading Fascism throughout Europe today.

In Spain democracy was fighting Fascism, he said, and he then traced the Fascist movement in Europe and made the prediction that within a year Germany would have full control of Austria, and it was on the verge of taking over Czechoslovakia.

Germany and Italy are out to destroy the British Empire, Mr. Lore said, but they were not strong enough as yet to precipitate another war. "We all hate war," said Mr. Lore, "and none of us would want America to join Europe or Asia in another war."

America's Part
If the League of Nations was weak, said Mr. Lore, it was the duty of America to be strong.

Select Four Trades as Subjects to Be Taught In Vocational School

Architect Betz Will Soon
Complete Plans Based on Courses Selected on Monday

Oakley Farney of the vocational and industrial division of the State Department of Education met with President Alfred Schmitt, Commissioner Bernard A. Farney, Superintendent B. C. Van Ingen and Architect Gerard Betz on Monday to discuss proposed courses for the new vocational school to be erected on the high school grounds.

A general survey had been made by the education board several months ago and as a result of that survey the following four courses were favorably considered:

1—General electric course, including the fundamentals of electrical wiring, the building and repair of motors, etc.

2—Power machine operation, for girls in the sewing trades to meet the requirements of local industrial plants which manufacture shirts, dresses, etc.

3—General automobile maintenance.

4—General industrial arts, an expansion of the woodworking and crafts now being taught in the manual training school.

While it is expected that the four courses will be adopted other courses may also be added if the need for them is warranted.

Plans Awaited Courses
The conference Monday was held so that Architect Betz would know definitely just what courses were being proposed in the new school so that he could draw the final plans for the building. The interior plans for the school depend largely on the type of instruction to be given.

Letter to Wilke
Lilienthal in a letter to Wendell L. Wilke, power magnate, said the TVA and private companies would have to take the following into consideration:

A study of the operating records of the companies for the purpose of obtaining electric revenues, expenses, and net earnings over a period of years.

A study of the fixed capital record relating to the cost of the electric generating, transmission and distribution properties involved.

A general field survey of the electric properties.

A study of the accrued depreciation of such electric properties.

A study of the financial history of the Tennessee Electric Power Company.

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The position of the treasury on March 5: Receipts, $14,225,123.33; expenditures, $20,332,511.14; balance, $4,004,012.62.11. Customs receipts for the month, $4,722,114.67. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $3,931,405,571.83; expenditures, $5,078,877,947.72. (Including $1,572,011,024.02 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures, $1,145,472,375.89. Gross debt, $37,745,714,478.17, an increase of $1,249,350.77 above the previous day. Gold assets, $12,768,453,232.86.

Bridge City Bell Sure

Washington, March 8 (AP)—The treasury rang out the glad tidings today that Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—President Roosevelt's home post office—is going to get a bell after all.

It's going to be some bell, too, for it will cost $4,569, which is quite a noise on anybody's cash register.

Tangled in technicalities for weeks, it began to look as if no merry ding-dongs were going to clang out over the quiet Dutchess county countryside.

Three times the treasury's procurement division sounded the tocsin for bids and twice somebody got mixed up.

Only one company bid the first time.
The second time one of the bidders became confused over the dings and dongs. He thought the government wanted a bell that would ding just once for every hour.

Barbers' Holiday Thursday to Talk Over Conditions

A "Barbers' Holiday" has been called by the Journeymen and Master Barbers of Kingston for Thursday, March 10, and throughout the day it is anticipated that all of the barber shops of the city will remain closed.

This movement, which is sponsored by Local No. 524, J. B. I. U. of A., affiliated with the A. F. of L., has been called for the purpose of devoting the day to a study of the barber conditions of the city with the hopes that through better cooperation the present "unstable" conditions which exist in the trade in Kingston can be eliminated.

The "barbers' holiday" Thursday will be preceded Wednesday evening, March 9, by a big mass meeting at Leventhal Hall, 238 Wall street, at which time final announcement of plans for Thursday will be given out.

Not a Strike
This holiday is not a strike, said President LeRoy Sleight, of the Barbers' Local. "It is a meeting called by the Kingston Local and others interested in the betterment of working conditions in Kingston. There are three purposes for the holiday. One is to secure uniform prices and uniform working hours for the barbers. A second is for better wages and the third is to secure sanitary conditions in all shops."

A movement for unification of closing hours and a standard rate of prices for the boss barbers has long been advocated by the workmen as one step toward a more healthy working condition for the journeymen barbers as well as for the boss barbers who operate the shops. It is one of the purposes of the "holiday" to see that every shop is visited and, if open, the proprietor will be asked to join in the general movement for uniform closing hours and a standard price for work done.

The movement was started on February 24 when a mass meeting was held and it was voted to call a "holiday" for the purpose of bringing to the attention of all barbers the need for a uniform working agreement. At that time committees were appointed and the course mapped out.

Workers to Meet
When the shops close Wednesday evening at the usual hour all barbers are expected to meet at Leventhal Hall and there receive instructions as to the "holiday."

Thursday morning, instead of reporting to work at their shops the barbers will report at 8 o'clock at Leventhal Hall. There will be prominent speakers. Charles La Motta, International Representative, will be present and explain matters. A course will be mapped out and later in the day delegations will visit all shops and see whether the closing has been observed. This will apply to all shops, whether union or open shop. Where shops are found to be open and operating the delegation calling will explain the purpose of the movement and endeavor to bring the shop in line for the uniform price and closing agreement. While the movement is being sponsored by the union it is not a proposition to compel shops to unionize.

Circulars which have been distributed say, "Please remember that the object of this city-wide movement is to bring about a complete unification of prices in all barber shops of Kingston as well as for better wages, hours, and working conditions for the journeymen barbers. Let us say 'good-bye' to cheap prices and hard times."

All shops will re-open as usual Friday morning.

Seek Ouster of Isaacs
New York, March 8 (AP)—A delegation of religious and patriotic organizations headed by Jeremiah F. Cross, state commander of the American Legion, left for Albany today to petition for the removal of Stanley M. Isaacs as borough president of Manhattan.

Washington, March 8 (AP)—A program for training young officers for the American Merchant Marine was announced today by Emory S. Land, new chairman of the maritime commission.

Two classes of trainees, cadet officers and cadets, will be placed on government owned or subsidized merchant ships in addition to the vessels' regular officers and crew.

Cadet officers will be selected from among graduates of the United States Naval Academy, the Coast Guard Academy and the State Naval Schools of Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and California.

Applicants for cadet positions need not have had any formal training. They must be between 18 and 23 years old.

Cadet officers will receive $75 a month and maintenance during a one year training period. Cadets will receive $50 and maintenance. They will be quartered with the ship's officers.

LOOK OUT FOR MARCH COLDS!

A change of seasons is always a dangerous time. When sunny days come in March we are tempted to put aside our winter clothing. As a result, colds are very common this month, especially among school children and others who have been confined indoors. You help reduce colds by taking Father John's Medicine regularly. It is a real body builder that increases resistance to colds and related coughs.

Fred Hayes Tells Way to Success

In a recent issue of the Nassau Republican, a former Kingstonian, Fred L. Hayes is mentioned among "Prominent Nassauites," a feature devoted to successful men in Nassau, N. Y.

Mr. Hayes, formerly a machinist in the old Cornell Steamboat Company shops, is now head of the Nassau Utilities Fuel Corporation, formed on April 1, 1925. Today it has four water terminals with a total storage capacity of six million gallons, 25 trucks and 19 employees. The payroll is in excess of $125,000 annually.

Concerning his success, Mr. Hayes says, "We have tried to make our employees or as we would rather call them, our associates, feel that they are as much a part of the organization as the others are. And, we try to convey this impression in deeds rather than words. We operate with the Golden Rule as our motto and it has repaid us financially as well as spiritually."

His philosophy of life: "One who fears the future limits his activities. Failure is only the opportunity to begin again more intelligently. There is no disgrace in honest failure; there is disgrace in failing to fail."

Mr. Hayes has a summer home in West Shokan, "Woodland View," where he spends his vacation with his wife, the former Anna F. Munch, daughter of the late Michael and Barbara Munch, of 13 Stone street. They have two children, Joel and Natalie.

Mr. Hayes left Kingston in 1908 to work as inspector of motor equipment for the New York Taxicab Company. He became superintendent over 500 cabs in one year, and his ineffectual leadership advanced him to manager of the concern with 1,000 cabs. In 1913, he purchased a garage of his own, and at the end of the World War sold this to enter the employ of the Tide Water Oil Co. Seeing the possibilities in fuel oil, he joined the Nassau Utilities in 1925 as an associate of Joseph H. Andrews and Henry W. Andrews, the latter now dead. In 20 months the enterprise outgrew itself and was reorganized with a capital stock of $200,000. Several other companies were bought up by the Nassau until it reached its present proportion.

STONE RIDGE

Stone Ridge, March 7.—Charles Walden, Jr., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walden, Sr., before leaving for Chicago, where he will be engaged in business until June.

The World's Day of Prayer observed in the Reformed Dutch Church on Friday afternoon was a most interesting and impressive service, conducted by the Rev. Harold Hoffman and the Rev. Frederick G. Baker. Four missionary societies were represented: Marbletown, High Falls and Stone Ridge Reformed and Stone Ridge Methodist churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Berge of Brooklyn, accompanied by Miss Susannah Anderson and Miss Anna Guston of the Brooklyn Norwegian Hospital, motored to this place on Saturday to spend a week's vacation at the Milson house. Mr. Berge returned to Brooklyn on Sunday.

Miss Charlotte Becker of Yorktown Heights was a week-end guest at Edgewater Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks entertained on Sunday Ephraim Weeks and son, Fred Weeks, of Ashokan.

The Rev. Harold Hoffman, accompanied by Carl Gazlay of Cortekill, will call on Wednesday evening at the homes of Mrs. Merriman, Charles Davis, Jr., and Arthur Van Allen.

Miss Doris Pine resumed her studies at Kingston High School on Monday after a three weeks' absence from grip.

Mrs. Millie Schoonmaker was hostess on Sunday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hornbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hornbeck as dinner guests.

Miss Oswald Jacobsen entertained Miss Zella Sahler to dinner on Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Baker read a letter from the pulpit of the M. E. Church on Sunday, from Mrs. Elmer J. Hunt of Edgewater Camp, who has been seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia. Mrs. Hunt expressed gratitude to the pastor for his calls and words of assurance and to the people for their prayers and kind remembrances of flowers, fruit and cards.

Miss Minna von Bergen spent a few days last week in New York city and enjoyed the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry von Bergen.

The people of the community regret to hear Mrs. Fred Hults of Manokill is seriously ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bert Delamater, in this village. Mrs. Hults is suffering from a stroke. Her daughter, Mrs. Harry Barton, of Newburgh, is assisting in caring for her. The Rev. Mr. Hults was a former pastor of the Stone Ridge M. E. Church for three years.

Jesse Roosa and Robert East have taken over the farm of Mrs. Fred Davis, formerly under the management of Ray Van Demark.

Miss Elsie Mowbray of Paterson, N. J., spent the week-end with her great-grandmother, Mrs. Ida Miller, at the home of Mrs. Vina Crawford.

The cafeteria supper served at the Reformed Dutch Church on Wednesday evening was well attended and the people are grateful to the public for the success.

An evening of softball will be enjoyed in the Sunday school room of the M. E. Church. The men of the community are invited to attend.

Recent visitors of Mrs. E. J. Hunt were Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ellis, Mrs. Scott Ellis and sister, Miss Leona Ingalls of Greenville. Other callers were Mr. and Mrs. Feester of Brooklyn.

The Rev. Mr. Acterkirk of Kerhonkson M. E. Church, was a dinner guest on Saturday evening of the Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Baker.

Mrs. George Weeks was a guest on Wednesday afternoon of Mrs. Ruth Roosa and sister, Miss Mary Ostrander, and in the evening attended the cafeteria supper at the Reformed Church.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press.

The "Eyes" Have It.

Spartanburg, S. D.—It was the long eye—not the arm—of the law that put six men in jail for gambling.

Officer I. L. K. Cooksey, trying out an old telescope, spotted the men playing cards in an open field hundreds of yards away.

His phone call brought a squad of fellow officers. They surrounded and captured the men.

Fiddle-Fiddle.

Amarillo, Tex.—No Big Apple at the annual Panhandle Cattle-men's convention.

The cowman will throw three dances per night for three nights, but only old-time square dances will be allowed.

Said Jess Hill, who has been "ramrodding" convention dances many years:

"All this talk about the Big Apple replacing the square dance cut here is merely fiddle-fiddle."

Super Trouper.

Tucumcari, N. M.—"Tiny Joe" Bright, held here for extradition to California, "wowed" officers with a comedy routine.

A theatre arranged for him to put on a performance, under guard.

Officer John Palmer, of Sacramento, Calif., recognizing "The Show Must Go On," watched from the wings, then took Joe away.

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, March 7.—There will be a community party held in the church hall on Friday, March 11.

Monday evening, March 14, another rehearsal of the "Deestrick Skule" will be held in the church hall. All members of the cast are requested to be present.

Mrs. Potter is ill with grip and her many friends and neighbors wish her a speedy recovery.

Rob Snyder had the misfortune to catch his left arm in the gear of his truck while it was running. The arm was quite badly cut and bruised and required medical attention.

To Sell Unused Schools

Milton, March 8.—The two unused schools in the village of Marlborough on Grand street and West Marlborough and the three in Milton will be offered for sale at public auction on April 2 at 2 o'clock. The sale will take place on the steps of the unused Grand street schoolhouse in the village. The highest bidder will receive the school and property in all sales but that of the Turnpike school. In this case the building will be sold but the property will revert to the estate of Charles Young. This property was so deeded when the school was built many years ago.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

Milton, March 7.—The March meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Ernest. Mrs. Caroline Sears has charge of the program.

Boys' 4-H Club

Milton, March 7.—The Boys' 4-H Club met Monday night with their leader, Edgar M. Clarke. Garden planning was the topic.

Senior Play

Milton, March 7.—The senior play of the Central High School, "Anne of Green Gables," will be presented in the school auditorium on Friday, March 25. Miss Lila Barnes of Milton plays the leading role.

Personal Notes

Milton, March 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Birdsall S. Taber and daughter, Isabel, Mrs. Adelaide Wilke and family, and Miss Grace Hallock were among those who attended the Paige-Taber wedding in Poughkeepsie Saturday. The bride is a native of Milton.

James R. Clarke, Grange Master, attended the anniversary celebration of Ulster Park Grange at Golden Rule Inn Tuesday evening.

Word received last week states that Dr. John Manzella has arrived safely in Miami, Fla.

KRIPPLEBUSH

Kripplebush, March 8.—A St. Patrick's party will be held in the Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall on March 18. A cafeteria supper will be served. An evening of games will follow.

James Roosa, who has employment in Newark, N. J., spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. L. M. Roosa.

Mrs. LeRoy Osterhout entertained the members of the Ladies' Aid Society Wednesday, March 2.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. DuBois and Thyrta, spent Sunday afternoon and evening with Mrs. Laura M. Davis and family.

Miss Virginia Christians returned home Sunday after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Barley in Ellenville.

Miss Katherine Van Aken spent Sunday at her home in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Christiansa Donald and Jean, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Japhet Christiansa at Rose Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Barley, of Ellenville, called on Mr. and Mrs. C. Christiansa on Sunday.

LYONSVILLE

Lyonville, March 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oakley and Kenneth J. Oakley spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Christiansa and family of Kripplebush spent Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Japhet Christiansa.

Mrs. Peter L. Davis and granddaughter, Roberta E., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis and father.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oakley and son, Kenneth C., called on Mr. and Mrs. James Davis and family on Friday evening.

James Davis and Peter L. Davis were in Kingston on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Ethel Wager and friend of Kingston spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wager.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oakley spent Sunday with relatives at Stone Ridge.

BUY A MODERN CAR NOW—WHILE YOU HAVE MORE TO TRADE AND LESS TO PAY

NATIONAL USED CAR EXCHANGE WEEK

MARCH 5 TO MARCH 12

SEE ANY CAR DEALER DISPLAYING THIS SIGN

Get there early while the choice is wide—fine cars now offered at rock-bottom prices

A few days ago nobody had ever heard of National Used Car Exchange Week. Today the news is in hundreds of thousands of homes throughout the country, and many excited "family buying councils" are under way. No wonder! The American public has never had such an opportunity to OWN A BETTER CAR for a remarkably small investment.

What's your first question? Can I afford to buy now? If you've been putting up with an old unreliable car, you can't afford NOT to buy now!

Spring is just around the corner—automobile dealers co-operating in this great nation-wide sale have an unusually fine selection of good used cars—and prices are far below those of several months ago. Look at the classified pages of this paper for proof. Visit the used car lot or showroom of any authorized car dealer displaying this sign and see the exceptional bargains on display.

Many are 1937, '36 and '35 models—backed by the finest of dealer guarantees. All have thousands of miles of first-class unused transportation in them.

And the "first-class" transportation of these modern cars represents satisfaction which the owners of older cars can hardly imagine. Beautiful, modern styling—a more comfortable ride—more room for you and your luggage—finer, more powerful engines—better gas mileage—better brakes—bigger tires—dozens of improvements introduced since your old car was built.

Stack up your old car—with its prospect of repair bills and decreasing trade-in value—against the joy of owning a modern car like this. Now's the time to make the switch, while you have more to trade and less to pay. Your present car may cover the down-payment—balance on easy terms. If you have no car to trade, you can still take advantage of the low down-payments and easy terms during this sale. Buy early while the selection is the widest and the best.

TRAFFIC PLANNING

The automobile has done two things to marketing customs, both temporarily disturbing. First it took a lot of buying away from the small town and centered it in cities. That was hard on merchants in the towns and rural districts. They saw much of their former trade speed past their doors on the fine pavements and rubber tires of the motor era. The situation was not wholly good for the big centers. It created new problems. Traffic congestion became so great that everything was slowed down and finally people sought to avoid it by going to outlying markets once more. That situation was largely responsible for the development of branch banking. Customers found it too difficult to reach the central banks by automobile.

There is still an acute problem of traffic congestion in the business districts of large cities. As a result, says the director of the Bureau of Street Research in New York, fundamental changes in marketing and trade activities will be forced in the near future. Whether they will be planned, or will be allowed to "just grow" with the waste that process usually entails, remains to be seen. Some large concerns today are studying traffic-flow maps to determine the location of their own new retail outlets. Past experience is no longer a safe guide. City-planners, road designers and small town business-groups should get together over those same maps.

FRIENDLY ATTITUDE

That flurry over an alleged secret naval pact between the United States and Great Britain has subsided. It seems to be accepted by Washington correspondents, of all shades of opinion, that no binding commitments have been given by either government. There is obvious good will, and perhaps a tacit understanding as regards general naval policy and a friendly attitude in emergencies, but apparently nothing formal or binding. With this understanding, perhaps most Americans can agree with a statement made by Secretary of Interior Ickes in his Washington's Birthday broadcast to the British Empire:

The community of interest that exists between Great Britain and America, as well as between other people who believe in democracy, should be strengthened. The principle of democracy is under attack throughout the world and is faced with the greatest fight in its history.

In all parts of the world today it is beset by two fanatical foes, which have the will to conquer at all costs. Democracy cannot live side by side in the same country with either Fascism or Communism.

Democracy is the very antithesis of those objectionable systems of government. Totalitarianism, either of the right or of the left, is alien to the spirit that dominates the English-speaking democracies of the world.

Democratic America—or republican America, if anyone prefers that term—has to live in the same world with these alien systems, and has to get along with the nations representing them. But we must continue true to our own system, and friendly with all the free nations in harmony with it.

BUSINESS COOPERATION

President Roosevelt recently suggested informally, at a press conference, that it would be a good thing if the automobile industry, through its financing companies, would tighten up credit on car sales. He proposed limiting the payment period to 18 months, and abolishing wage assignments and deficiency judgments, as better in the long run for everybody.

Now it develops that the big auto financing companies have accepted the suggestion in full, on the reasonable condition that the smaller financing concerns be brought into the agreement. "Thus," writes columnist Paul Mallon, "without legislation, congressional investigation or edict, the President has managed to change a basic practice of one of the nation's leading industries. His associates consider it a significant instance of the willingness of industry to cooperate with the administration." If there could be similar cooperation all along the line, with either business or government willing to accept any reasonable and constructive suggestion from the other, we should soon be out of this depression.

THE THREAT TO DEMOCRACY.

Edouard Daladier, Defense Minister of France, told his political associates the other day that adequate defense for France depended on ending social unrest. "Only an increase in our production, maintenance of order and respect for law, conciliation of interests and their submission to the general interest will permit us to maintain and reinforce our alliances and friendships."

A similar idea was expressed in the broadcast speech of Secretary of Interior Ickes to Great Britain. The greatest threat to democracy there and in the United States, he said, lies in a system which does not provide economic security for the masses. There is truth in these statements. Democracy, we believe, offers a more satisfactory way of life than Nazism, Communism, or Fascism. It can be seriously endangered only from within, when it does not live up to its own possibilities and promise of freedom, justice and opportunity.

That Body of Hours

 REST IN BED IMPORTANT.

During the 1918 and 1919 flu epidemic I happened to be Senior Medical Officer of a large military hospital and was in a position to watch the effects of different types of treatment—the use of fever-reducing drugs, the use of various heart stimulants, the effect of getting patients to bed the first day of the attack (and also three or four days after the attack first occurred), the effect of removing blood from patients who had recovered and injecting it into others, particularly those with a high temperature or where there was a complication of bronchopneumonia or pneumonia.

Our records showed that our death rate was much lower than the average for the general population and this was believed to be due to the fact that every soldier was checked over daily and those with influenza were placed in hospital a day or two sooner. It was this getting the patient into hospital "a day or two sooner" that brought about early recovery and prevented the dangerous complications of bronchopneumonia and pneumonia. These two ailments, not influenza, were responsible for most deaths because they overtaxed the heart.

That early rest in bed is more important in preventing complications than the form of treatment is shown by a report by Dr. Alfred M. Glazer, Cincinnati, in the Ohio State Medical Journal. There were four groups of patients:

Group 1 was given aspirin compound, forced fluids, and light diet.

Group 2 was given the same treatment as Group 1 plus fifteen grains of soda bicarbonate—baking soda—every four hours.

Group 3 was given same treatment as Group 1 but quinine was used instead of aspirin.

Group 4. No medicine of any kind except rest in bed, was given but a gelatin capsule of glucose (sugar) every four hours.

The results of these methods showed that the temperature, the stay in hospital, and the complications were not any higher, longer, or more numerous in the cases where rest in bed was the only method of treatment than when medicine was used. Dr. Glazer stated that, however, those who did receive medical treatment seemed to "feel better" on leaving the hospital than did the others. I believe the above records teach two things. First, getting to bed and remaining in bed is more important than medicine; second, that all of us "like attention" when we're sick and the use of simple remedies may help the morale or well being of the patient.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

TYNOPSIS. Love for a young English girl, has changed my mind. I feel Clyde and myself (Paul Thorne) are desperate enterprise. With Christine Forrester's support Clyde becomes rajah of tropical Balingong, throwing out the Malays, enemies of our Dyaks. Rentong, the sultan's representative, attacks, and I lead a jungle campaign. A victim of fever I reluctantly urge on my men, Christine's voice, Christine, here, come to me in my dream.

Chapter 43

The Bloody Tuan

ONE day I awoke in a way that was new, because instead of coming into consciousness from fever, I simply awoke from sleep. After a while I remembered where I was, and what I was about, and I wanted to lift my head to count the praus I had left; but I was so weak that I lay still, my eyes on the backs of the paddlers ahead, and I could recognize the backs of what paddlers I could see. We were moving in the river again.

For the first time in a long while, I was now able to see these men clearly. They were terribly gaunt; their ribs and muscles showed sharply under skin no thicker than a coat of brown paint. I saw how slow and weary their paddling hear them all around us in the air. After a little while I asked, "How many men are left?"

"Tuan, four tens and one." All at once I was filled with pity and sorrow, and a terrible humility. I had well earned the name of The Bloody Tuan. If I worked for these people all my life, I would never be able to repay the bloody debt I had made in the name of the White Rajah.

Because of the current, my weary paddlers were able to make fast time to the mouth of the Tomarrup. In the bow of my bankong was a tall pyramid covered with matting. It had been built there while I was unconscious of what went on around me; and it was a pile of heads. The other four praus carried similar cargoes of trophies.

I hated those pitiful mounds, and would have done anything to get rid of them, but there was nothing I could do. To these Dyaks the heads meant prestige, honor, wealth; they meant the admiration of women, and the homage of men. All the rewards and necessities of war for which white men fought were represented for these people in those trophies, and in them alone.

The number my Dyaks had taken was so unprecedented that they could not believe their victory themselves; and when the circumstances of the campaign were considered, the effect could hardly be exaggerated. If I had told them was, I noticed the rags that they had bound upon the worst of their wounds, and the flies that had fixed themselves upon the lesser wounds which they had not bandaged. I managed to raise myself a little, bracing a shoulder against a thwart.

A murmur ran along my bankong, and presently was raised to a call to the other praus. "The Tuan Darah! He is awake! The Tuan Darah is awake!"

A shiver ran over me, and this time it was not the shiver of a disease chill. I could translate the name they had used. "Tuan Darah" meant "The Bloody Tuan." I knew that the name was probably conceived in admiration, and intended as an honor; but in my weakness it made me very sick.

And now suddenly I became aware of what I had put these people through. I had always detested the way they lived, and their uncleanness, and their brutality with human heads.

Now, their faces no longer seemed monkey-like, but like the faces of children whom the jungle made old before they could grow up. They had put their lives into my hands, and they had followed me into places none of them could ever have dared go without me. And many, many of those lives I had thrown away.

Pitiful Mounds

"IV/HERE are we going?"

"Down stream, Tuan. We are going home."

"Have we fought today?"

"No, Tuan; there is no more fighting now. There has been no fighting for four days. But for four days you have been talking to the Kamangs."

"How many villages did we take?"

"Tuan, we took them all."

"All? I don't understand you."

"Their big village was the last. We carried you as we went into it with our parangs. Two of us carried you because you could not walk. You were dead. Your eyes were dead, but Kamangs were looking out through your dead eyes. Those you looked at ran into the jungle; we know that they died—later. The Kamangs were everywhere, helping us. We could to dispose of the heads they would have thought me mad, and would have rebelled.

Only One Reason THIS was the sort of primitive material we must work with upon Sumatanga, and it could only be transmuted by the process of the years. If we did not wish to work with it we should not be here. Ironically, but in truth, those mounds were the outmost milestones on the advancing trail of empire.

I was worrying desperately now as to what had happened at Balingong; I could not explain Clyde's failure to send me support. He would not let me simply disappear into the jungle for this length of time without doing something. But when we reached the mouth of the Tomarrup without meeting praus from Balingong, we knew that our support from Clyde had either been destroyed or had not been sent.

There was only one reason I could think of for Clyde's failure to send aid. If he had not sent praus it was because Rentong had struck in some other quarter with tremendous effect.

I was regaining part of my strength now, and I was terribly anxious to get back to Balingong. Yet I stopped my prau at the mouth of the Tomarrup to give my paddlers rest. Privation and the fatigue of the long strain had so weakened them that I dared not take to the open sea; and now for two days they slept.

I had planned to stay there three days, but early on the third morning a single bankong, manned by 21 sea Dyaks, most of them Tanyolung, came driving into the delta of the Tomarrup at last, and the word that it brought from Balingong set us instantly upon the sea.

Rentong had not struck in some new distant quarter. With all the forces which he had been able to gather to his command, excepting only the tribes which held me in the Tomarrup, Rentong had struck Balingong itself!

SHOKAN

Shokan, March 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers are expected home soon from their winter's sojourn in Florida.

Miss Helen Matland returned to Brooklyn Thursday after having spent a week at the Matland summer home in the village.

Several members of the Olive and Hurley old school Baptist Society gathered at the local meeting house Sunday for religious services.

Miss Barbara Tuceling has returned from the Rhinebeck hospital, where she underwent an operation three weeks ago. Miss Tuceling is making favorable progress towards recovery.

The marriage has been announced of Lemuel J. Ploss to Ina E. Reid, the ceremony having taken place January 27 in Albany. The newlyweds are making their home at Ashokan. Mr. Ploss for the past several years has been employed at Henry Carleson's Tonche Mountain Rest on the state road.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Elmendorf, and daughter, Doris, motored to Albany, Saturday.

A hot grass fire in the rear of the Frederick Herschenroeder residence, near the mountain road, gave amateur fire-fighters of the west end section quite a tussle Thursday before the blaze was brought under control.

Little Betty LaNothe was pleasantly surprised Saturday by six of her young friends, the occasion being Betty's sixth birthday.

The card party given Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Auer E. Longyear was attended by about 50 persons. Fifteen dollars was realized for the benefit of the treasury of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, pickles and coffee were served during the evening.

This pleasing social affair was arranged by Miss Edna Longyear. Out of town residents attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. William Lasher, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, Mrs. A. Lane, Mrs. Stewart Jones, Mrs. C. H. Weidner, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Burgher, Mrs. Alonzo Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richter.

Edward Herschenroeder, of New York City, spent the weekend at the Herschenroeder home, instead on the mountain road.

March 7, 1938, a total of 583 votes were cast at the Olive town meeting. Democratic majorities were indicated as follows: 104; Asa Bishop, clerk, 130, and John M. Burgher, commissioner, 75. Of these gentlemen, Mr. Matthews, a storekeeper at Olive, was the father of the late Frank Matthews of Kingston; Mr. Bishop, a Civil War veteran, kept a general store at Olive City, and Mr. Burgher was a Shokan farmer owning 120 acres on the west side of the Esopus creek.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nichol were Sunday callers at the Samsonville home of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Kleeck, who returned home last week from Florida.

The March meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ned Windrum. There were 11 members and two visitors present at the meeting. The ladies decided to meet on Thursday of this week, at the parsonage for a sewing bee, and also set the date for their annual fair and supper for August 9. The next meeting of the Aid is scheduled for April 6, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Green in Shokan.

The maple sap ran fairly well Sunday, despite the rather blustery weather. The alternating cold and stormy weather of last week resulted in a negligible amount of sap being gathered by those who had made an early tapping of their maple trees. Similar discouraging setbacks have occurred in the past, notably in 1935, when the first tap, made

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 14—Charlotte Vanderbilt.

The "Charlotte Vanderbilt" was a wooden-hull boat built by B. C. Terry at Keyport, N. J., in 1857. She was 207 feet long and was constructed as an experiment, but proved a failure.

Because the "Charlotte Vanderbilt" could make no better than 12 miles an hour with her experimental engine, she was laid aside, and it was not until 1862 that she came into regular service, and then only after the installation of a new engine.

In 1861 the "Robert L. Stevens" an old Hudson river night line boat plying between Saugerties and New York, was condemned and her engine was removed and placed in the unused "Vanderbilt." This in 1862, the "Charlotte Vanderbilt" replaced the "Stevens" on the night line between the two river ports, but her name was changed to the

"William F. Russell." Later she was chartered by the War Department and her name changed to the "John Tucker." After the Civil War she sailed in southern waters in and around Washington and Baltimore under the original name of the "Charlotte Vanderbilt."

In 1877 she was purchased by the Catskill line for service between Catskill and New York, and it was in this service that she met her end.

On Friday evening, July 14, 1882, the "Charlotte Vanderbilt" headed down the Hudson for New York and at the time about two miles below the Rondout light house collided with the Deland steam yacht "Yosemite," which was sailing up the river. The "Vanderbilt" was struck at the forward gangway and was cut in two, sinking immediately. Fortunately there were no passengers or freight aboard at the time, and the crew was rescued. The vessel was never raised.

AGRAPHIS

Despite a score or more of available varieties, peach growers are still looking for the perfect peach.

Uncle Ab says he wishes that houses got as much architecture as sky-scrapers and filling stations.

Pasture experts say there is nothing like a top-dressing of manure and superphosphate to pep up an old meadow.

The cost of short-term credit varies from five or six per cent a year to as much as forty or fifty per cent, depending largely on where the farmer gets the credit.

Of the 2600 dairymen who keep monthly records of feed and production in New York dairy herd improvement associations, several hundred have been association members for ten or more years.

To supply enough vitamin A for good growth in chicks, poultrymen should include five per cent of alfalfa meal or alfalfa leaf meal in the ration, especially if the ration contains no cod liver oil.

Mice cause most damage to orchards in spring and fall. Cornell bulletin E-338 has helpful hints on control, and single copies are available free to orchardists from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

WILLOW.

Willow, March 7.—Prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoffman this evening at 7:30.

Miss Virginia Lane was a dinner guest with Miss Marie Ford on Sunday.

Martin Talcott, who has spent the last eight months with Mrs. Raymond Ford, returned to his home in New York on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bard are back home after spending a short time with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lane in Zeua.

The friends of Mr. Kautzbauser wish him a speedy recovery from his operation.

Elroy Arnold went to Philadelphia on Sunday.

Communion service will be held in the M. E. Church on Sunday, March 13.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I have long since forgotten the errand that took me down to that particular part of Fifth avenue, but I will always remember the ball of black fur that stopped me in front of the little pet shop.

It was a kitten barely 10 weeks old, with a tail like the plume of a cadet's shako, and he was making life miserable for his old mother by nipping at her tail and tramping in her face.

Occasionally when his exuberance got out of hand she would jump up and give him a whipping, but he would always come back and finally she became resigned to these indignities and chose to disregard him altogether.

I liked his friskiness and the way he would scare himself with a fly and run and hide behind his mother until he got his courage back, and then come jauntily out again.

AND so of course I bought him. Who can walk away from a fun-loving kitten after watching him frolic for half an hour? As they put him in a box and cut some holes so he could have plenty of fresh air, the sales girl observed, "He's a cute one, but mister he's hell on silk stockings," which was okay with me, seeing as how I don't wear them anyway.

I named him Curio after the old negro slave in Stephen Vincent Benet's poem about the Civil War, "John Brown's Body," and then began an association that confirmed my previous conviction that all kittens have definite personalities.

HOW he could rip chair-covers and knock dishes off the table! Let me say here that if you place a value on material things you should avoid cats. They delight in breaking costly china and sharpening their claws on rare upholstery.

But they know how to play. They go all their tongues hung out, till they drop in exhaustion. Then they sleep. When a kitten doesn't do this, look out. That's how I found out that this one was suddenly and unexplainably ill. A piece of paper on a string held to his nose. He wouldn't jump up on the desk and knock over a vase. One moment he was dancing a feisty jig, the next he was down in one of those strange and unbreakable seizures.

And so maybe owning kittens isn't such a good idea after all. No, that they aren't worth ten times the money and trouble they cost. They are. But when something happens, it wounds you too deeply. You get too tied-up in the little devils.

Monkey Ways

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"GOOD-DAY," the monkeys returned in their characteristic voices. "You are a crow, aren't you?"

"I'm not merely a crow," returned Christopher proudly, as he perched on one of the tree branches. "I am Christopher Columbus Crow."

"Dear monkey me," said one of the monkeys, "we have names, too. Our owner has a pet name for everyone of us, but we also have names showing the part of the world from which we come, or the family to which we belong."

"What do you mean?" asked Christopher.

"I mean," said the monkey who had just spoken, "that when you see a monkey who looks very much as I do it shows he is a member of the Rhesus family from India."

"When I think of monkeys I just—well—think of monkeys," cawed Christopher.

"Then that is ignorant of you," said the Rhesus monkey. "Of course monkeys are very, very intelligent."

"No more so than crows," cawed Christopher.

"That also shows your ignorance," said the Rhesus monkey, as he swung over to the branch by Christopher and gave him a cuff.

"Yes," continued the monkey, "there are all kinds of monkeys—the ring-tailed lemur who has a very long and pointed tail with rings around it of which he is immensely proud, there is the red howler from South America whose howling voice can be heard for over a mile. There is the Japanese red-faced monkey who can stand colder weather than we can. And I'm only just beginning to tell you things.

On the Radio Day by Day

W. C. R. BUTTERFIELD
Time is Eastern Standard.

New York, March 8 (AP).—It may be that Saturday night is not such a good night for spellers as Friday. Anyway, Paul Wing's bee of WJZ-NBC is changing this week to a time approximately 24 hours earlier than heretofore. The time for the new night will be 9:30, but the network will remain WJZ-NBC. For the contestants in the first of the Friday series there will be live Broadway dancing girls in a spell-down against five freshmen from New York University.

Eamon de Valera, president of Ireland, is to send his annual St. Patrick's message to this country from Dublin via WABC-CBS on March 17. Except for one year, he has been greeting the sons of Erin in the United States on this occasion since 1932.

LISTENING TONIGHT (TUESDAY):

TALKS—WABC-Intercity 9:45, Sen. Homer T. Bone discussing the issues of peace and war; WJZ-NBC 11:15, Rep. Knute Hill on "Planning for Plenty."

Mannequins Parade Many Clubs Meet At Y. W. Thursday On First Monday

Seventeen mannequins, dressed in the latest and smartest of new spring clothes, will parade Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. and sport the attractions of the spring openings.

With spring just around the corner the Married Women's Club looks forward to this affair with great pleasure and as an incentive to tote up the wardrobe.

Local shops cooperating with the club are the Barbizon Shop, sports-wear; Goldmann's, a clothing shop, daytime and evening wear; London's Juvenile Shop, children's clothes; The Wonderly Company, accessories; Ted Carl Millinery, hats; and Evelyn Erickson, coiffures.

The mannequins will include Mrs. Ralph Cooper, Mrs. Eugene Freer, Mrs. Thomas Reynolds, Mrs. Edward Rembert, Mrs. Harold V. Clayton, Mrs. Addison Schultz, Mrs. E. E. Altman, Mrs. C. Ray Everett, Mrs. N. LoVan Haver, Mrs. John L. MacKinnon, and Mrs. William H. Welp.

Junior Hadassah Organized In City

A Junior Hadassah group was organized in Kingston on Sunday under the direction of Miss Evelyn Diamond, prominent Poughkeepsie Junior Hadassah worker. The group will attend a Purim party in Poughkeepsie on March 12, and will hold its first regular meeting on March 14.

Officers chosen for the new organization are Miss Sadie Lutten, president; Miss Sophie Basch, vice president; Miss Clara Rolter, secretary; Miss Ruth Gramer, treasurer; Miss Ruth Stone, publicity chairman; Miss Roselyn Shapiro and Miss Helen Miller, membership chairman; and Dr. Nettie Weintraub, senior advisor. Others present at the first meeting on Sunday were the Misses Anne Present, Esther Goldman, Mildred Dean, Beatrice Basch, Helen Dinnarstein, B. Bohrmann and Helen Klein.

Junior D.A.R.

Following the monthly business meeting of the Junior Group of Willwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held last evening, the members enjoyed a St. Patrick's Day Party arranged by the entertainment committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. Clarence Wolfenstein. The members and their guests witnessed a mock wedding, played Irish games and matched shamrocks for partners for the supper which was served by luncheon style. Hostesses for the evening were Miss Helen Evers, Miss Gertrude Evers, Miss Anna DeWitt and Mrs. Adam Von der Linden.

Gay Nineties Theme

The days of the frivolously feminine nineties are recalled by this spring blouse. It is designed of white shadow-printed Swiss organdy processed to retain its crispness when laundered. The spring bonnet is of deep rose felt diked with a cluster of flowers.

At The Theatres

Broadway: "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Missus a single big name star yet hailed by critics everywhere as the outstanding motion picture triumph of a decade, Walt Disney's first full length film comes to the Broadway as a don't miss attraction of the first magnitude. The famous fairy story takes on color, comedy, beauty, terror and reality during its rendition and it will captivate and enthrall all who see it. Here is a new phase of the motion picture art, a whole, some and entertaining picture that possesses interest, enjoyment and humor. Staged and presented with rare skill and genius, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" brings its audience a cinema masterpiece from the realm of fantasy and presents it in a manner so entertaining that motion picture patrons will want to see it enacted again and again.

Orpheum: "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round." One of the year's most entertaining and elaborate musical numbers comes to the Orpheum with a star studded cast plus some of the season's best humor and music. It is really a parade of big names in the sports, stage, screen and radio fields and such ranking performers as Tamara Geva, Ann Dvorak, Gene Autry, Jimmie Gleason, Phil Regan, Leo Carillo, Joe DiMaggio, Cab Calloway, Ted Lewis and Louis Prima. Charles F. Reisner directed this novelty film and it rates with the best of the musical comedy attractions.

Broadway: "Sane." Kingston: "She Loved a Fireman" and "Expensive Husbands." Dick Foran forsakes the western type of film fare for the fire fighting brigade in this story of a hook and ladder employee who fights fires and his girl friend at the same time. "Expensive Husbands" is the associate feature with Beverly Roberts starred.

Orpheum: "Perfect Specimen." The humorous and different story of a cloistered young man of wealth who is brought up to be perfect in a physical and mental sense because he isn't contaminated by other human beings and who goes completely on the loose when a strange girl happens into his guarded estate forms the excitement and laughter for this show with Errol Flynn and Joan Blondell starred and ably supported by Edward Everett Horton and May Robson.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN NIAGARA RIVER TURBINE

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 8 (AP)—Police today sought the identity of a woman, whose battered body was found in a power plant turbine.

The body of the woman was found yesterday by workmen. The legs and arms were missing. Water entering the turbine flows through a vat from Niagara river above the falls and through the city to a plant several thousand feet below the falls.

MARIAN MARTIN SHIRTWAISTER WITH CHOICE OF THREE NECKLINES

SPANISH LOYALISTS SINK INSURGENT CRUISER IN BATTLE

The 10,000-ton cruiser Baleares, (above), one of the more powerful warships under control of the insurgents in the Spanish civil war, was sunk by Loyalist torpedoes and aerial bombs in an engagement off the Spanish coast in the western Mediterranean. British destroyers on patrol duty reported rescuing 400 men from the ship before it sank in flames.

Supreme Court Meets Tomorrow Bergan Presides

When no case was found ready for trial today in Supreme Court, Justice Bergan recessed the term until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when it is expected the term will proceed. Jurors were excused until that time.

In making up a day calendar Monday afternoon Justice Bergan attempted to find some case ready for trial this morning but when it developed that there was no probability of any of the cases being ready today he called for cases which could go to trial Wednesday and after making up a day calendar for that time recessed the term.

Thirteen cases were placed on the day calendar for Wednesday. They are Nos. 129, 135, 149, 159, 174, 177, 182 and 183 and 181 and 185 to be tried in a group, 184 and 148.

Heading the calendar for Wednesday is a breach of contract action brought by Aaron Beckerman against Herman Cohen. An assault action brought by Aaron M. Weiss against George Diamond follows. No. 149, is a separation action brought by Russell P. Smith against Marion J. Smith. No. 159, consists of three consolidated cases brought by Luther C. Dixon against Carlton W.

1 Week Remains For Income Tax Filing, U.S. Warns

Washington, March 8 (AP).—Have you made out your income tax return? There's only one week left.

Making out returns is a cinch, especially if you go to an internal revenue expert for help. At least that's what one expert—a gentleman with white hair and gold-rimmed glasses—said today.

Briefly, as he put it, this is all you have to do:
First figure your "gross" income. "Gross" means total. Except that the government stretched the meaning a bit in your favor. "Gross" doesn't include, for instance, things like the life insurance you get when your uncle dies.

Then the fun begins. You start deducting items to get what the government calls "net" income. You deduct the $10 you gave last year to the community chest. The $231 you paid the city on real estate taxes. The interest you paid on that note at the bank. The uninsured loss on your garage that blew down and the $50 had debt you gave up trying to collect.

If you are single, take off $1,000 as your personal exemption. Married men get a break and can take off $2,500. Every child or other dependent necessarily supported by you counts for another $400 exemption.

However, if Cousin John, who has been living off you while carefully avoiding work, is over 18 and in good health, Uncle Sam counts you a sucker and counts John nothing at all in the way of deductions.

There's one more deduction, which the experts say many salaried people fail to take. It's called an "earned income" credit. If your net income was under $2,000, this credit is 10 per cent of the net. If your income was over $2,000, deduct 10 per cent of either your salary or your net income—which ever is smaller—except that $300 is the minimum credit.

To figure the tax you take—rather, the government takes—4 per cent of what's left. If your net income minus personal and family exemptions is more than $4,000, there's also a "surtax," which is not a polite manner of speaking to the collector but means extra tax.

Will Seek Approval

Paris, March 8 (AP).—The French Cabinet decided today to seek parliamentary approval Thursday of a financial reorganization plan pointing toward an eventual extraordinary expenditure of 15,000,000,000 francs ($487,500,000) for national defense during 1938. The program, according to preliminary statements of ministers, would include the reorganization of Finance Ministry accounts in such a way as to reduce current governmental expenses and strengthen the nation's credit.

Saugerties Host To Local Masons

A district rally of the Greene-Elster Masonic District will be held in Saugerties on the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 18. The rally is being arranged by Scott M. Ellis, district deputy grand master of this district.

The afternoon session, in the form of a round-table conference, will convene at 2 o'clock in the Masonic Temple and will be of especial interest to lodge officers for lodge problems will be discussed and any one present may have the privilege of the floor. At 6 o'clock, a dinner will be served in the banquet hall of the Reformed Church and at 8 o'clock the evening session will be held in the auditorium of the church.

On these occasions, the speakers will be the Most Worshipful Harold J. Richardson, a former grand master of Masons in the state of New York and now secretary of the Grand Lodge No. 1, and Right Worshipful Jacob H. Strong, area representative of the Board of General Activities.

The evening session will be open to the general public and the addresses will not be confined to Masonic matters. The speakers, who are men of outstanding ability, will discuss topics of timely interest.

Strictest Secrecy

Washington, March 8 (AP).—Justice department agents assigned to espionage cases worked today in strictest secrecy, by order of Attorney General Cummings. His instructions, which included a ban on any publicity without his personal approval, were given as reports spread that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had uncovered new clues to the operations of a "spy ring."

Holy Name Rally In Newburgh

In the current issue of the Archdiocesan Union, official paper of the Holy Name Society, is announcement of the annual rally which will be held this year at Newburgh. The rally will be held on Sunday, June 19, and will include members of the Holy Name Society of this diocese which comprises the territory from New York to Saugerties.

Holding the rally this year at Newburgh, which is very centrally located in the district, promises to bring out one of the largest representations in years.

Arrangements for members of the local societies to attend will be made later.

HELD IN SIX-YEAR-OLD DEATH OF CHILD

Arthur E. Nearhood (left) was held without bail on a murder charge at Lewisburg, Pa., as authorities revived an investigation to the fatal shooting of his daughter, Mabel, 4, on Christmas, 1931. At the right is Squire A. Paul Kline. (Copyright, Philadelphia Inquirer.)

Farley Stamps Revision Hit

Washington, March 8 (AP).—Representative Barton (R., N. Y.) said today revision of postage stamp designs and denominations announced by Postmaster General Farley was a "scheme to make sure that all Republicans are forgotten."

"Every Republican president is pushed into a spot where he will be seen by as few people as possible," Barton said, "while Democratic presidents get the big time showing."

"Abraham Lincoln committed the great political offense of opposing the Democratic party; therefore he is punished by Mr. Farley by being stricken off the three cent stamp. Thomas Jefferson takes his place.

"William McKinley has been a fairly well known figure, adorning the seven cent stamp. Now little insignificant Martin Van Buren, who was only a Charlie McCarthy for Andrew Jackson, is promoted to McKinley's place. If the public wants to see McKinley's picture it must buy a 35 cent stamp.

"The good spots are Democratic. Three cents, Jefferson, six cents Jackson. Mr. Farley is their campaign manager as well as the President's. He is going to make sure that their memories are kept green—and that all Republicans are forgotten."

Will Untangle Birds

Buffalo, N. Y., March 8 (AP).—William Sullivan polished his tree climbing apparatus today in preparation for the opening of the season of rescuing birds-out-of-trees. Sullivan, an Erie county Humane Society agent, explained: "In the spring nesting season birds often get tangled up in the strings they're weaving into their nests. Then, if they aren't rescued, they'll just flap and flutter, getting more tangled all the time until they die."
